

Cannon Aid

1965

On the Cover

As the Eternal Peace Light Memorial represents the desire of this Country for eternal peace, so does the education of its youth represent the only hope for this achievement. It is only through educated youth that this or any nation can truly hope for a world free from fear.

The blocks that compose the Peace Light, a symbol of peace, can also personify education. The base block represents the teachers of our youth, upon which our education is built. The next block represents sports and activities, where the student strengthens his moral attitudes towards life. The upper column represents the student body, striving for an ever higher goal. This is the hope of America, youth meeting a challenge for an education, upon which Democracy and Peace can be built.

Published by the Class of 1965

Gettysburg Area High School

Gettysburg, Pennsylvania

In a sincere expression of gratitude the class of 1965 most respectfully dedicates the Cannon-Aid to Mr. Charles Tressler. His genuine interest in Gettysburg Area High School in serving as its principal and his present interest in the development for higher education hold him in esteem. Thank you, Mr. Tressler, for your being a guardian of Education, the Eternal Flame.

Abraham Lincoln demonstrated his wisdom and sincerity as leader of a nation in defining democracy—a government of the people, by the people, and for the people. So must the administration display wisdom in its vital role of lighting and encouraging the eternal flame of education.

In 1893, Katharine Lee Bates wrote a poem which was rewritten in 1904 and later set to music by Samuel A. Ward. This song became known as America the Beautiful.

The whole poem describes the motives, ideals and objectives of the people of our country. Often times, when sung in public, the third stanza is omitted. I would call your attention to the third stanza.

"O beautiful for heroes proved
In liberating strife,
Who more than self their country loved,
And mercy more than life.
America, America, "ay God thy gold refine
Till all success be nobleness,
And ev'ry gain divine."

This stanza, read slowly and with comprehension, indicates areas of our thinking which need emphasis today. It is my hope that you, as Seniors, and everybody who reads this will direct your thinking and future actions to the thoughts contained in it.

Although it is ignored by many students, the school board plays an important part in our everyday lives. The Gettysburg Joint School Board is the governing body of our school. As such, it is responsible for the making of all major policies. The actual joint school board containing all representatives elected from the various townships meets only twice a year. The actual running of our school district is carried on by various committees, the most important of which is the Joint School Committee which meets once a month. The board through its committees is responsible for hiring personnel, fixing salaries, and the making of the budget. In the past year the school board has approved the addition of a new section to our high school and has acquired a bus for the use of students in various activities. The school board provides our parents an opportunity to help shape school policy. It is the vital link of democracy in the running of our schools.

Mr. Moris Quint, Principal

MR. QUINT

I should like to preface my remarks by stating that I am delighted to be in the Gettysburg Senior High School. The faculty here at G.H.S., in my opinion, is superior in every respect.

To the Class of 1965 my best wishes for continued success. I am quite sure that you have prepared for the future which lies ahead. It is our most ardent wish that you carry forth the heritage of this historic community, to the corners of the earth with dignity and pride.

Please remember that all that was done here at G.H.S. was done to the end that you would be able to accept your rightful place in society. Our nation needs responsible citizens. I think you will meet this need.

Go now to face your future with determination, pride and humility. Bless you all!

MR. GROVE

One very significant characteristic of most young people, particularly the high school graduate, is their personal compulsion to become associated with worthwhile goals and causes. Certainly education is one such worthwhile goal.

Life to this age group is full of challenge, opportunity, zest, expectation, wonderment, adventure, and acceleration. This is the point in life where one begins to become more mature, an independent being who is capable, willing, and ready to challenge the personal opinions and philosophies of his parents, friends, and teachers.

The young mind that is filled to the brim with pride and desire for personal fulfillment and an excitement for the future will soon acknowledge a fundamental truism, that education is unquestionably the individual's "eternal flame." I commend the yearbook staff for its foresight and depth of thought regarding a suitable theme for the Class of 1965.

I sincerely hope that your class through its members will continue to strive toward motives of high purpose and consequence. I would like to extend my sincerest congratulations to the members of the Class of 1965. Good luck and kind regards.

OFFICE SECRETARIES

On arrival at the principal's office, one is always greeted by the busy, but cheerful secretaries, Miss Dorothy Fidler and Miss Louella Klinefelter. Answering phones, typing letters and documents, and doing clerical work comprise their daily duties. In addition to being secretaries to the principal and assistant principal, the girls prepare the high school annual budget for the superintendent of schools.

Mr. Quint, are you busy?

BUSINESS OFFICE

The Business Office assumes responsibility for an accounting procedure adequate to record all transactions affecting the acquisition, custodianship, and disposition of moneys and credit, including cash receipts and disbursements. The Business Manager handles all official documents of the district. He has general supervision of all repairs to buildings and the maintenance of the land and buildings of the district.

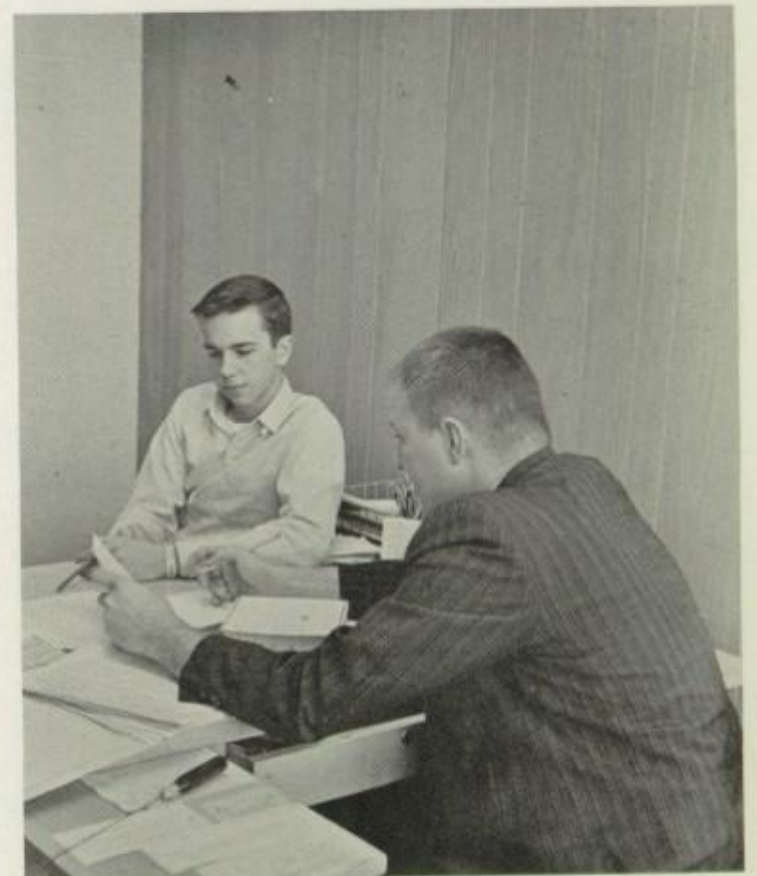

Being Secretary to the Joint School Committee, he serves the board and superintendent on financial reports and other information necessary to the successful operation of the schools and the preparation of the annual budget.

Advice for college-bound Senior

for Tomorrow

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

It has been suggested of the guidance department of a school that its function is "to help Johnny see through himself and then assist him in seeing himself through."

At Gettysburg High School, students look to the future and prepare for a career on the basis of their interests, abilities, and social needs. Development of present potential of each individual is emphasized.

Personal consultation is offered in interviews with each student by Miss N. Louise Ramer and Mr. Michael Nord, guidance counselors. Facilities of the guidance department include extensive material on colleges, vocational schools, and vocational planning. Access to the student's record keeps his advisors well informed on grades and activities.

"Straight talk," an opportunity for the teenagers to discuss common problems, was created this year by Mr. Nord. Students found the movies and panel discussions of social concerns and future plans beneficial in dealing with their personal problems.

Library

MISS WENTZ

One of the liveliest and most stimulating jobs in the world is that of the school librarian. Miss Susan Wentz, our librarian, with the help of the teachers, builds a library collection that supports and supplements every subject taught in the school. Another task of the librarian is to instruct the students in the effective use of library materials. Being a public relations expert is a must, for she also promotes library services. Training and supervising a corps of student assistants make her duties so varied that no two days are ever alike!

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Physical and dental examinations indicating the methods to correct any remedial defects are the main functions of the School Health Service. Under the capable direction of Miss Ellen Miller, this department renders aid in cases of emergency, illness, or accident. First-aid kits are strategically placed in various parts of the building to insure immediate treatment of minor injuries. Students suffering from minor illnesses or accidents are cared for in the nurse's office any time. The student's welfare is always the first consideration.

"Another essay?"—a common question directed to a senior English teacher. But one must develop his written and spoken English, increase his reading caliber, and prepare for adult life. Meeting these objectives of the English department, the sophomores reviewed grammar and read Julius Caesar and other classics. The junior English program, exploring the literature of America, also included skills of writing essays and making speeches. Senior English classes became familiar with England's literature, read Macbeth, and expanded their vocabularies.

Opportunities for acquaintance with an international language exist in a selection of French, German, Latin, Russian, and Spanish. The ever-increasing necessity for knowing several languages was accommodated by the use of records, language "labs" and seminars attended by the instructors.

Guiding Light

"We want better wages and Beatle music while we work" was the chant from an American history class studying labor strikes. Through experiences like these the teachers of social studies show realistic problems and help develop future active citizens. World Cultures, American History, Problems of Democracy, Economics, and Driver Education comprise the courses of study. Audio-visual equipment aids in classroom teaching. Library materials and classroom books supplement cultivation as well. Summertime employment of teachers includes two battlefield guides and a ranger historian, vocational experiences which add "extras" to learning.

Physical education stimulates fundamental skills, intramural and recreational sports, and good sportsmanship. Various activities are offered with many adequate facilities.

A test tube is broken or a starfish is mutilated. Bewildering lab experiences show students the how's and why's and increase insight into a field of science. Biology I offers studies in plant and animal phyla. Physicists explored energy and matter and established the Gettysburg Weather Station which brought daily weather reports to school and community. Chemistry students were enlightened in the elements. Biology II and Chemistry II were granted as advanced instruction for the first time this year.

A competent teaching staff provides a wide field of mathematics, General Math I and II, Algebra I and II, and Plane and Solid Geometry inform on arithmetical fundamentals. Algebra III, Trigonometry, Probability and Statistics, and Advanced Math are offered for progressed study.

"Type letters . . . take shorthand . . . add figures. . . ." An opportunity to gain basic skills, knowledge, and attitudes needed in the business world is provided through business education. Preparing for future employment, the students are instructed in secretarial, clerical, stenographic, and retailing fields.

Various office machines and punched-card data processing equipment are loaned to the school by a local business. Duplicating machines and other facilities as these offer practical experience for each individual. "Student secretaries" serve the teachers in typing, mimeographing, taking shorthand, and keeping records. Another occasion for assisting the school is in the operation of the central telephone switchboard in the office.

Glow as Inspiration

"Now, friends, it's played like this: one-two-and-three-four. . . . Let's try it again from measure forty-three." Through this familiar scene in the bandroom, each student develops the perception needed for being part of a musical organization. Choir and orchestra as well create an appreciative atmosphere. A general music course and a theory course are elected to promote the students' interest in music.

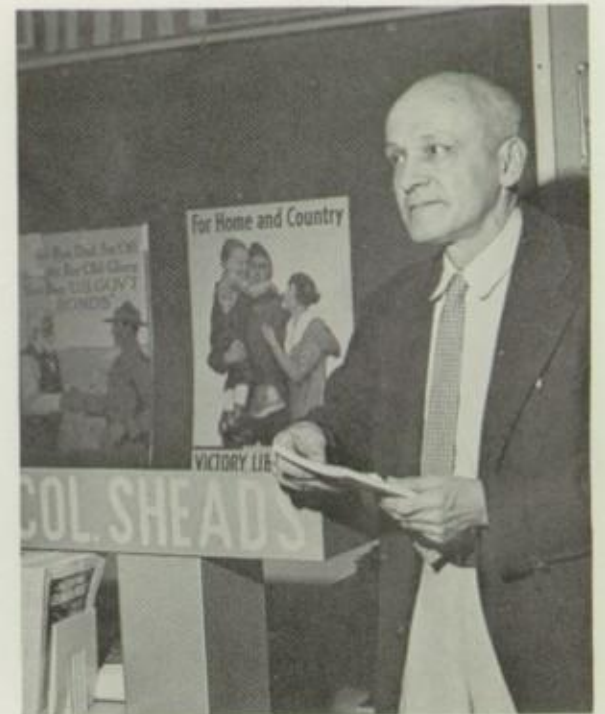

A lump of clay or a canvas evoke the creativity of the artistically talented. The Art Department stimulates artists who wish to extend their knowledge. An art majors' class meets five days a week to study theories, works, and techniques. Studying the history of art and doing creative projects give art appreciation students a deeper understanding of the arts.

Seniors

Within the Book of Life are many chapters designating the struggle and laurels of each man's life. At this point, the Seniors turn the pages of one of these chapters declaring the achievement of a goal. For a few brief moments seniors can consider this a high water mark in their lives, then once again they must return to the never-ending effort towards a goal.

Senior class officers: Peggy Smith (treasurer), Susie Musser (vice-president), Mary Anna Biesecker (president), Linda Simpson (secretary).

The Flame that Will Light the World

"We've finally made it!" Those were the words of many members of the Class of 1965 on becoming seniors.

As seniors, they led the school in various activities and organizations. They published the Maroon and White and the Cannon-Aid. They had positions of leadership in athletics, dramatics, and other phases of school life.

In the fall, the seniors sponsored a dance, "Autumn Fantasy," and their winning float added to the pageantry of the homecoming parade. Winter brought a holiday vacation but also worrying about term papers and exams. With spring came the class play, "Lost Horizon," the class trip to the New York World's Fair, and commencement. As their high school days ended, they reflected on their school life. They thought of the insignificant things which they as seniors had done for the last time. They thought of their class activities which had shown them the value of cooperation. They thought, too, about education itself, whose eternal light they will help to keep aglow.

World's finest what?

An Education Is Universal

Jose Barona.

Marina Repo.

An American Field Service International Scholarship is an open door which leads to understanding and friendship among the peoples of the world. Through this door pass foreign students for a school year of study and first-hand experience, as do American teen-agers from nearly every state to study and live with families abroad, a two-way exchange of seeing and showing.

This year the American Field Service chapter of Gettysburg sponsored Marina Repo of Helsinki, Finland, and Jose Barona from Valencia, Spain. "Money" lived with the Reverend John Bishop family and "Joe" with the family of Shelby Robert, Jr. Marina and Jose were sponsored by "shares" purchased by the students and citizens of the community.

Sally Jackson, one of four juniors who applied from Gettysburg for the American Abroad Program, became a semifinalist for the Summer Program.

An "International Day" was held by the local A.F.S. chapter to which exchange students from various nearby schools were invited. An interesting agenda was planned, including a panel discussion and a battlefield tour.

Through the American Field Service a similarity of life's goals and a common dream of peace are recognized.

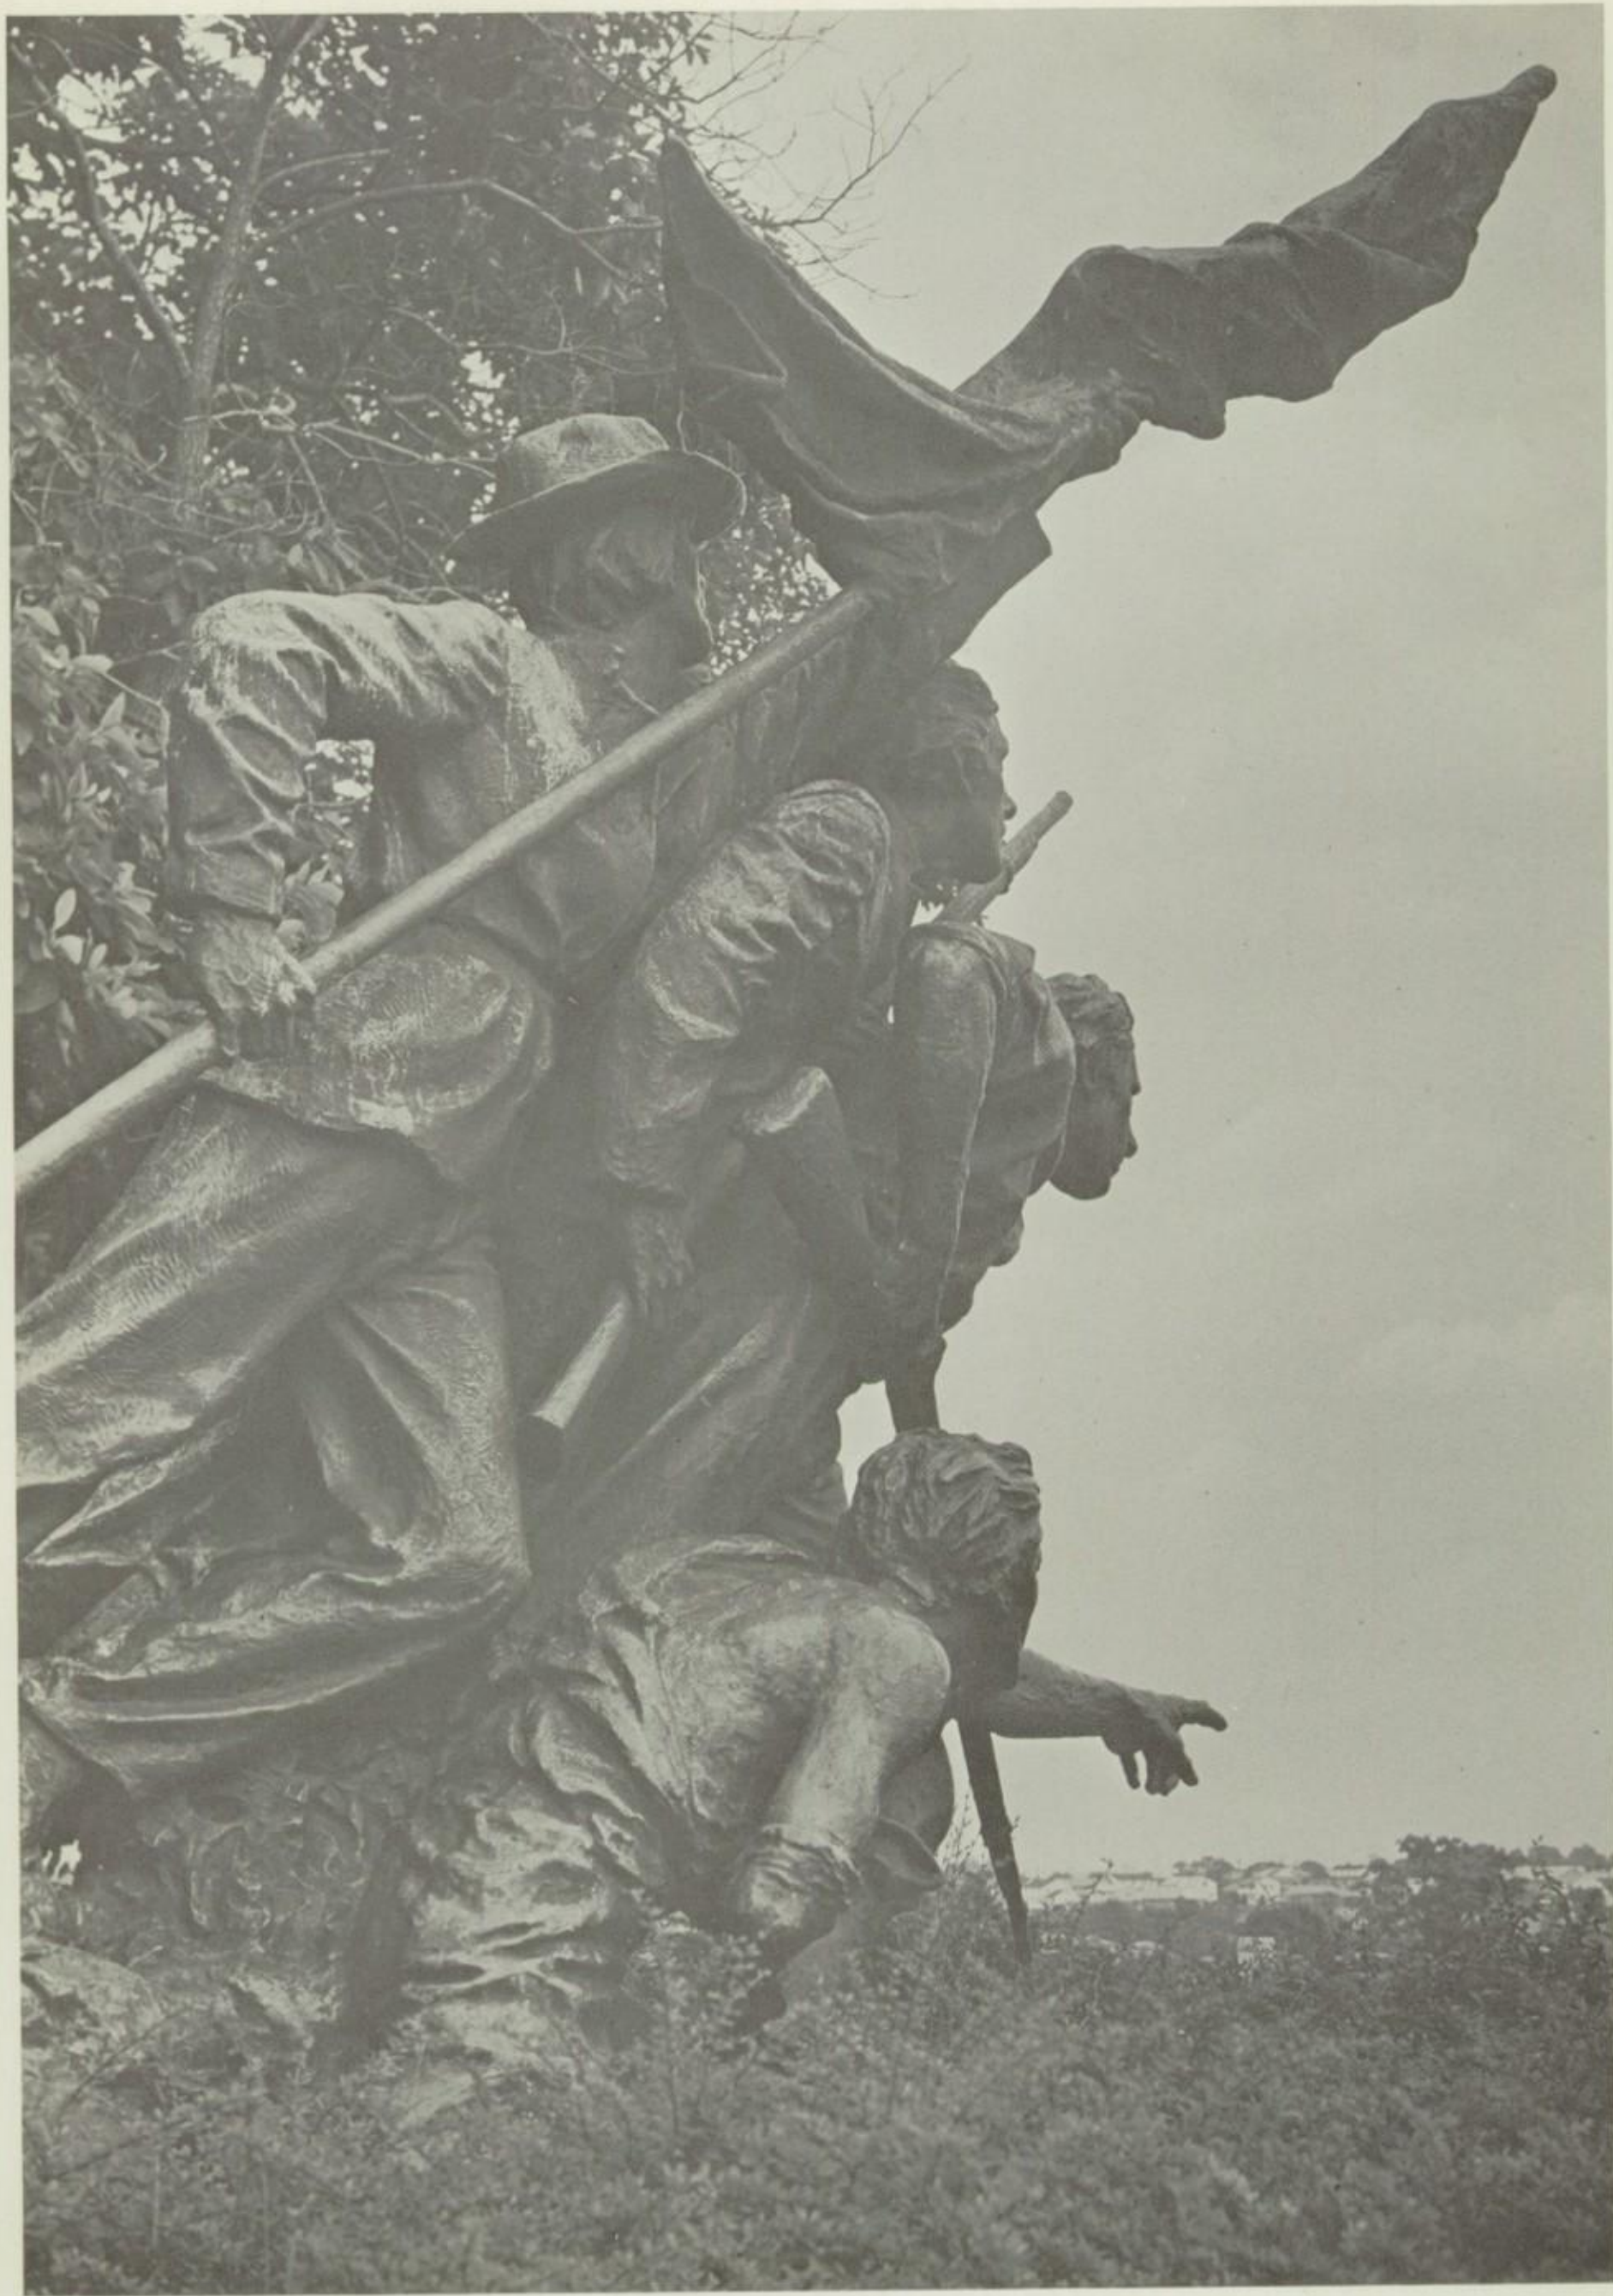

Mr. Quint welcomes Joe and Money.

Underclassmen

With the spirit that drove the men here displayed toward a goal, the underclassmen must persevere to achieve their aims and to actively fulfill their role in the use of the opportunities and privileges of education.

Junior class officers: Linda Young (secretary), Jean Crone (president), Sherri Hann (vice-president), Louise Harbach (treasurer).

The Flame that Becomes the Torch

Many fond thoughts of memorable and rewarding experiences resulted from a student's junior year of high school. This was a year of decision about one's future, but it was also a time of experiencing the satisfaction one gets on his way to completing an important phase of education, his high school years.

After high school, the paths that the juniors chose to follow, lead in all directions. Those choosing to further their education, sought help from our guidance counselors and faculty and were busy taking college boards and preparing themselves for college. Those students who planned a career benefited from the personal interest taken in them by the guidance counselors and by following those courses of studies that would best prepare them for such a career.

The class of 1966 proved their enthusiasm and school spirit in various ways. Active support of our athletic teams, excellent salesmanship during the annual magazine sales, and a splendid show of charity during the charity chest and A.F.S. drives were just a few.

Memories of the battlefield hike with Colonel Sheads, arrival of class rings, and the Junior-Senior Prom will be cherished in the minds and hearts of the class of 1966.

We're always willing to help the Colonel!

Class advisors—Mr. Glenn and Mrs. Hinckley.

The Flicker that Becomes a Flame

"Confused, bewildered?" Not the class of 1967 upon becoming a part of the senior high school. The sophomores contributed to the school through their participation in various activities.

The sophomore-junior class play, "Mistress of Mellyn," could not have been such an outstanding production without the sophomores' help. They served in behind-the-scenes work as well as dramatics. Through the football and basketball junior varsity teams, depth was added to the athletic program.

Sharing in the bustle of school life, the students can recall good times and hardships of their sophomore year. Through participation they have become school leaders of future years.

There can be little doubt that the coming years for the class of 1967 will be bright ones.

Sophomores are always up to something!

Sports

Possession of a desire to win is a characteristic of both an army in battle and a competing athletic team. Operation of the cannon symbolizes the necessity of teamwork required of the fighting soldiers to gain a victory. Likewise, the athletic team must also display teamwork, as well as sportsmanship and skill, to attain its goal—to win.

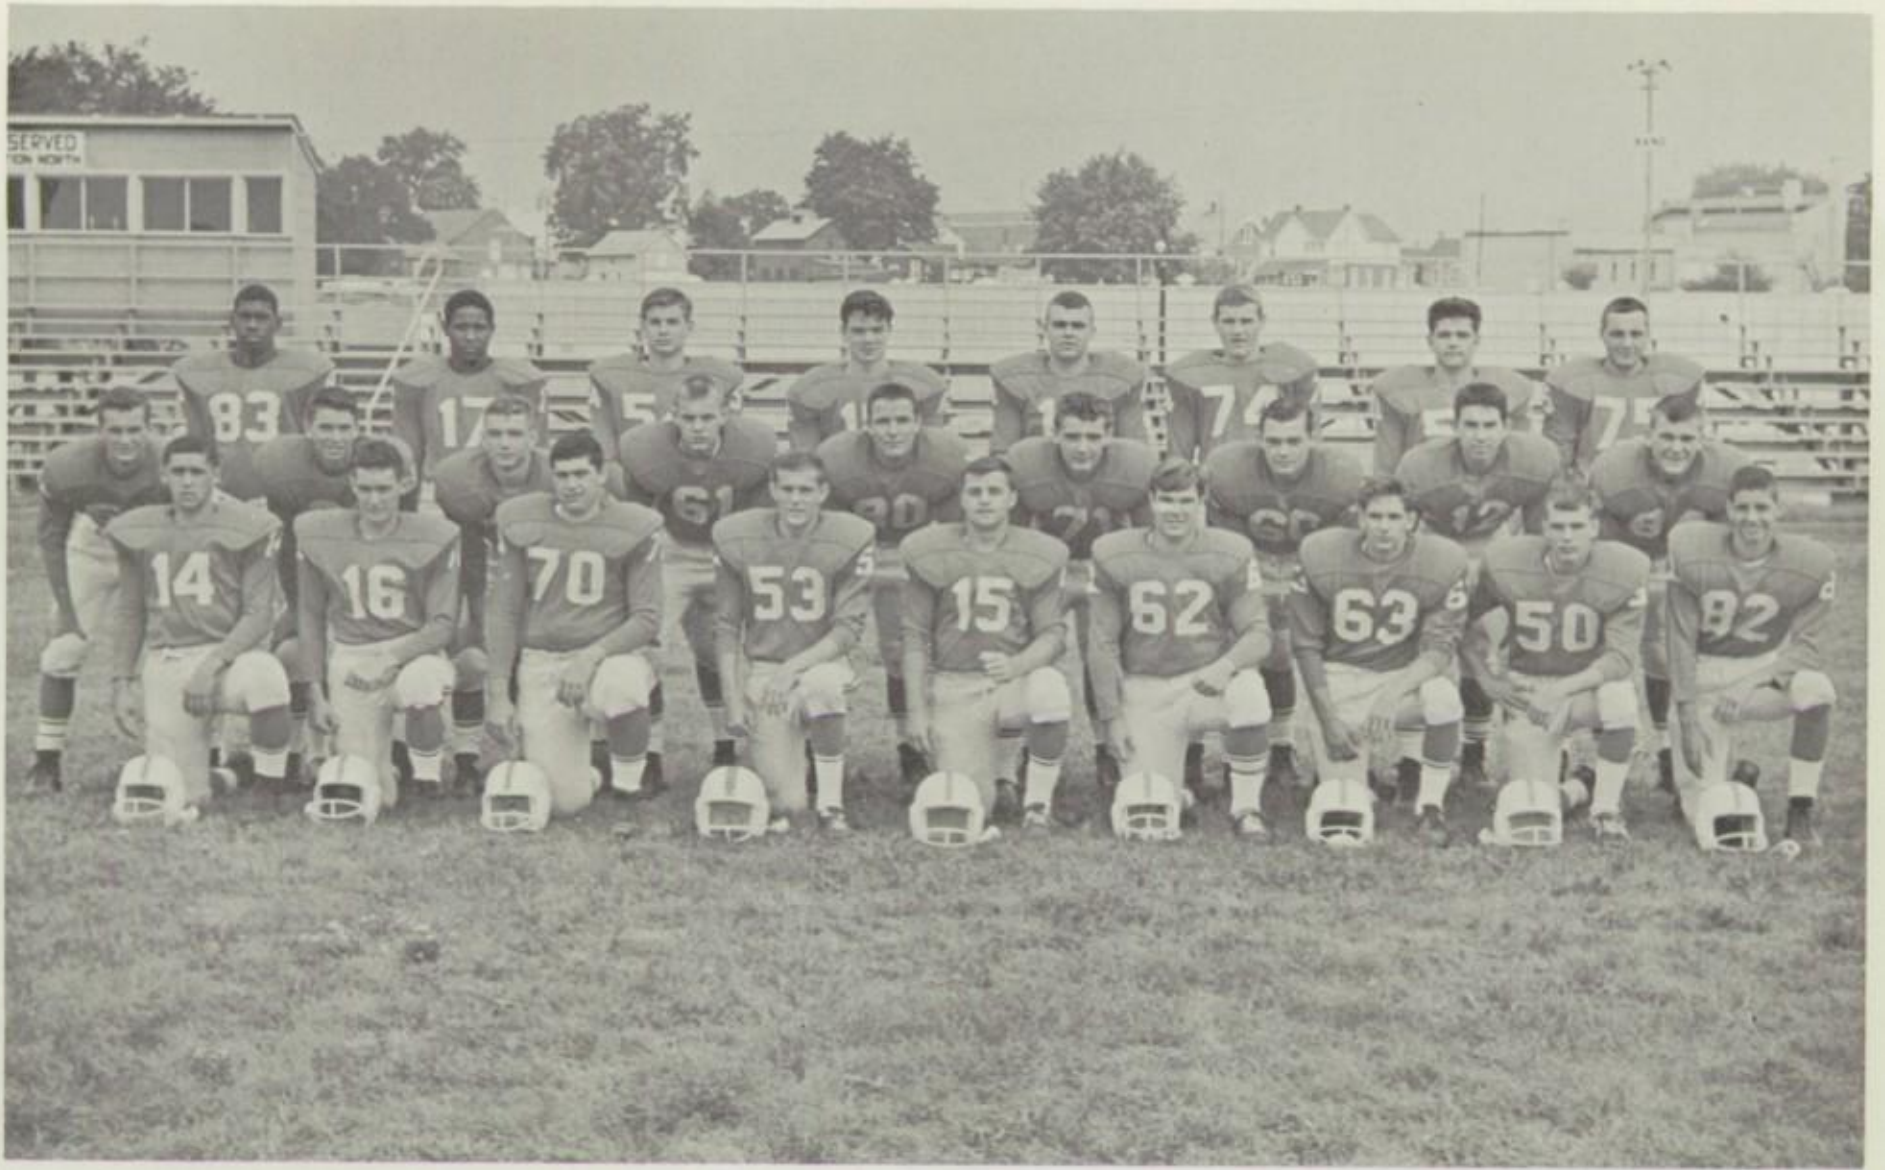

Posted as the best football season since 1951, the Gettysburg High School Warriors neared excellence as they finished second for the first time in Blue Mountain League competition. The varsity team swept through the ten-game schedule, which included nine league games, with little difficulty and outscoring their opponents, 207-99.

The team was led to victory by a fine quarterback, Dick Finkboner, top scorer with 87 points. Mike Herring, scoring 36 points, and Dave Perdue, adding 34 points, strengthened team effort; 925 of the 1,889 yards gained in rushing were achieved by Finkboner. The aerial attack was centered around Bill Jones who was the receiving end of 21 passes for a total of 257 yards.

The Youngmen topped off the season by defeating Biglerville for the third consecutive year, making the final record 7-2-1.

The Junior Varsity squad concluded a six-game slate with only two wins. Although the gridders dropped four games, the season was not a failure. The gridders have gained the experience needed to play good varsity football in the coming years.

Coach Little

Coach Lilley

The Gettysburg High School Varsity Basketball squad once again came through with many fine performances and another winning season. In regular league play the team won 16 and lost only 2 games. The campaign was "nip and tuck" all the way, and the Warriors managed to reach the playoffs for the second half championship with Shippensburg. The thrill-packed game was played at Carlisle, and the Warriors came out on top with a score of 61-42. However, the Warriors lost the BML title game to Shippensburg, 49-36.

Seniors who played for the last time this year, including four members of the starting lineup, were Tony Bushey, Dick Finkboner, Chris Folkemer, Rad Schultz, Mike Krick, and Dave Liss. The outstanding performer of the year was a junior, Kit Richardson. He scored 221 of the team's 735 points and had a total of 196 rebounds. Other fine performances were turned in by Chris Folkemer, who netted 149 points, and Dick Finkboner, who scored 133 points.

The Junior Varsity also turned in a fine season with a 15-3 record. They have also gained the much needed experience to produce a good varsity team.

Coach Little

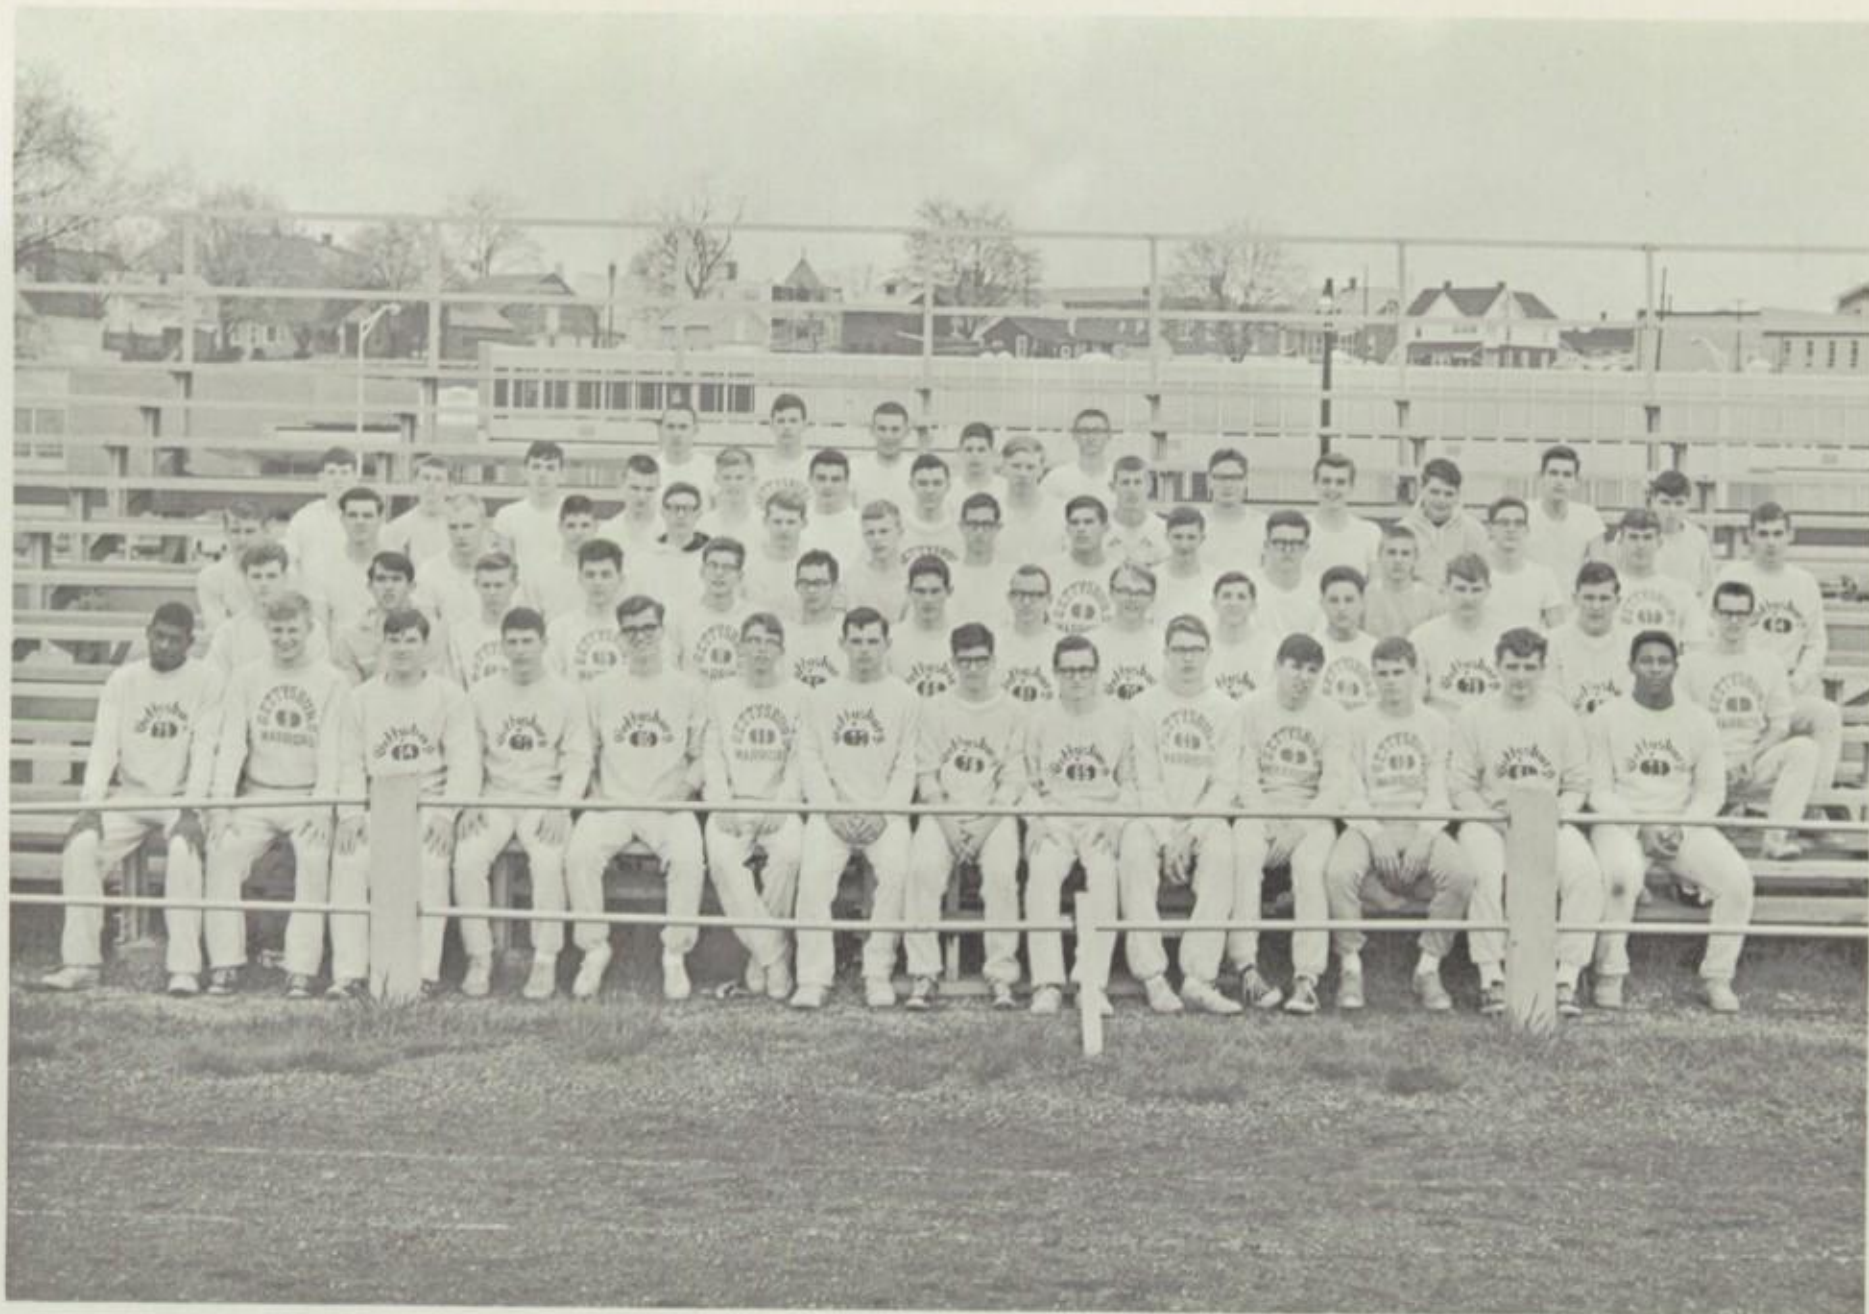

The spring of 1965 has brought forth almost 100 candidates who aspire to be on the Warrior track and field team. From these promising youth Coach Patrick Kelly will attempt to build a team that will be a strong contender for the Blue Mountain League title.

His hopes rest mainly upon the four lettermen: Bill Lane, John Eyler, John Ziegler, and Kit Richardson. Offering strong support are Tony Bous, Ken Boyer, and Dave Gorman in the dashes; Mike Keefer, Edwin Walter, and John Gildersleeve in the distance runs; Renfred Zepp, the 880; Sheldon Lear in the high hurdles; Tom Kuhn in the 440 yard dash; Jim Cullison and Dave Lutz in the shot put and discus; and Mike Doyle and Tom Heflin in the javelin. Dennis Kane is also expected to strengthen the team in the javelin and pole vault.

This season's strongest fields are expected to be in the shot put, javelin, 180 low hurdles, 440 yard dash, the distance runs, and a new event, the two-mile run, featured in this year's season.

Mr. Kelly is looking forward to a fine season and is expecting some school records to fall. He also feels that the championship will be won by the team with the most in each event, not necessarily the best in each event.

Last year the Gettysburg High School baseball team posted a 9-2 season and thereby firmly established itself as the champion of the Adams-Franklin League. Coach Don Young hopes to duplicate that feat this season. His hopes for the 1965 baseball campaign rest on the experience of the several veterans among the 32 candidates. Among these veterans are five returning lettermen. The senior lettermen are Bill Starner, Tony Bushey, Rick Fiscel, and Gary Herring. The only junior letterman is Mike Herring, who inherited the pitching chores from last year's ace, Charles Greiner. Other pitchers are Craig Smith and Gary Herring, who also doubles as a first baseman. Filling out the infield is Tony Bushey at second base, and Rick Fiscel at shortstop. Outfielders are Bill Starner and Tom Weikert.

The Warrior batsmen will be facing stiff competition, but this is expected to "whet their appetite" rather than hinder them. They have been toiling hard in the practice sessions, although the bad spring weather has hampered them somewhat.

This spring marks the second year of league play for the Gettysburg High School golf team. In previous matches the Warrior Linksmen have proved themselves to be worthy competitors. Last year they led the Susquehanna League until their last match, which was with Bishop McDevitt for the league title. Although they lost the match they posted a season of eight wins and two losses.

This year there are fifteen candidates for the team, including Eddie Plank, a junior and the only returning letterman. Last year he was the only Gettysburg player in the District Playoffs who made the cut for the afternoon round. Plank will be the mainstay of this year's team. Other promising candidates are Bob Kessel, a senior; juniors, Bob Teeter and Bill Hornor; Eric Bergdale, a sophomore, and Bo Davies, a freshman. Coach light is also hoping for a few pleasant surprises among the candidates to help round out the team.

Practice sessions are held at the Gettysburg Country Club, but have been curtailed due to the inclement weather. The home golf matches are also held there.

Through the Student Council, the students of Gettysburg High School have the opportunity to serve and to improve their school. During the past year, it organized the social calendar, sponsored the homecoming activities, provided hall monitors, and aided in a foreign student day.

The Council is the only school organization in which all the students are represented. As such, it is important as a liaison between administration and students. Through its work we find ourselves in a better school.

Council members consider school improvements.

Scholastic Achievement Provides Honors

One of the greatest honors a senior can attain is to be elected a member of the National Honor Society. To be scholastically eligible for this organization, a student must have a B average or be in the upper third of his class. He is also judged on the basis of leadership, character, and school service. The students were chosen by the faculty on a preference basis, limiting the membership to 15 percent of the senior class.

Looking to the Past Enables

"Bill, we need good homecoming coverage and keep taking candids" was the quote characteristic of the editor's conversation. Compiling the 1965 Cannon-Aid kept the editorial staff quite busy throughout the year.

Beginning the annual in the summer, the staff met to plan each division of the book. With the beginning of the school year, photographers began snapping pictures. Scheduling group pictures followed, and copy was written. Candids were selected, materials organized, and last-minute details were completed.

The Cannon-Aid staff sincerely hopes that the 1965 edition will recall fond memories of an eventful year. The staff wishes to convey its appreciation to all school personnel for their contributions to education and their protection of the Eternal Flame.

Toiling over our new edition.

Cannon-Aid Business Staff

The business and advertising staff members attained the financial goal needed for the annual to take form. Guided by Mr. John Gregor, the seniors associated with advertising canvassed the town and school for ads that helped with the payment of the book. Terminating its satisfying year, the business staff distributed an enjoyable yearbook to the students of Gettysburg High School.

As we have produced the yearbook, we have been guided and advised by Miss Ruth Roland and Mr. John Gregor. For their time, patience, and interest in our work, the Cannon-Aid staff says, "Thank you!"

Molly Ayre, newspaper editor, and Mrs. Deitz, advisor.

Maroon and White

Striving to keep the student body informed on school activities, the thirty-two seniors of the Maroon and White staff published eight issues of the school newspaper during the 1964-65 school year.

In their junior year, these staff members had been specially trained for this journalistic work by Mrs. Margaret Deitz, Maroon and White advisor. For those involved, reference to the newspaper was not merely a highlight of the month's events to be casually read, but also an indication of interviews, articles of specified lengths, subheads, deadlines, proofreading, and headlines. It also meant laying out the paper, soliciting ads, and circulating the finished masterpiece.

At the close of the school year, the staff members could look back with fond memories of a job well done.

DIRECTOR
Mr. Roger Parsels

The Gettysburg High School Band experienced one of its most interesting and rewarding years.

To prepare drills for the coming football season, the band began its practices in August at Camp Swatara. The sophomores were welcomed into the organization and the musicians met Mr. Roger Parsels, their new director. Scheduled drills and rehearsals occupied much of the musicians' time at band camp. Free time allowed them to enjoy swimming in the new pool, ping-pong, four-square, and "red dog."

The instrumentalists flashed down the field led by the drum majors, banner carriers, and color guard, entertaining football fans and cheering the team. Completing the marchers was the majorette squad which added color to routines and parades.

For the first time, sectional rehearsals were held to offer individual attention to the student's technique. At the spring concert, an outstanding senior was awarded the Arion Award, recognition for musicianship, scholarship, and character.

Conducted by the Band Parents Club, peanuts and candy were sold and a pancake supper was held to finance a trip which climaxed the year's activities. The band was invited to play concerts at the World's Fair in New York.

DIRECTOR
Mr. Grove

With a song in their hearts . . . the senior high choir proved its versatility in the variance of functions in which they participated.

Singing patriotic songs at the Veterans Day program began the group's engagements of the school year. Their sacred music at Christmastime supported a tableaux enacted by senior high students.

Superior talents of some singers enabled them to participate in county, district, and regional music festivals.

Appearing in pastel gowns and dinner jackets, the choral group shared an evening with the junior high school choirs in a traditional performance. Folk songs, sacred music, and show tunes highlighted a profitable and challenging year.

In their performance at graduation, especially the seniors realized the adequacy of being choir members under their competent director, Mr. Paul Grove.

To explore the teaching profession and to cultivate the qualities essential for virtuous teaching are the intentions of the Future Teachers of America. The members of the James Gettys Chapter consider various phases of education, demands of teaching and classroom situations in preparation for their futures. Cadet teaching gives the future teachers an opportunity to play the role of the instructor on the elementary and secondary levels. Teachers of the school system were honored at a Christmas tea given by the club.

Receiving its charter and writing is constitution this year, the Future Nurses of America club became a new organization open to all senior high students. Exploring and interesting others in health careers and serving the community were the aims of the club. The members are sponsored by the National League for Nursing and the Annie Warner Hospital Auxiliary. Orientation was given at the hospital and volunteers from the club acted as nurses' aides throughout the year.

Education's Roots – the Home

Development of leadership, character, and scholarship is the Future Farmers of America. Various levels of achievement are Greenband, Chapter, Keystone, and American. There are now seventy members with Mr. Elmer Schriver and Mr. George Glenn as their advisors. The boys have judged at the South Mountain Fair and have attended the Farm Show, and the state Future Farmers' Week at Penn State University. Each member kept records for the club, helped operate the greenhouse at school, assisted with refreshments at the football games, and carried out projects of his own.

The improvement of personal, family and community living is the goal of the Future Homemakers of America Club. Preparing for a vocation in homemaking, the Gettysburg Chapter has participated in a variety of activities throughout this year. The spring banquet honored girls for achievements with Junior, Chapter, and State degrees.

Expression Thru Achievement

The Mask and Wig and National Thespian Clubs, both dramatic clubs, headed by Miss Ruth McIlhenny and Mrs. Charles Smith, welcome all students who have completed requirements for membership. To be eligible for Mask and Wig, one must obtain three credits for acting, aiding in direction, or being a committee worker for a play presented by the students of the school. National Thespians call for ten credits achieved through the same type of contributions. The organizations enjoyed a hay ride in the fall and a banquet and initiation in the spring.

Miss Goss

Where there was school spirit and a cheering crowd, one usually found enthusiastic cheerleaders. This year the girls bought pompoms and learned new cheers to enliven the fans. Advised by Miss Jane Goss and Mrs. Edith Reinhart, the girls began practicing in the summer and after school many hours to improve their performances. Pep rallies, football and basketball games, and other school functions displayed their sportsmanship and friendliness toward other schools.

The Girls' Athletic Association provides an opportunity for girls to participate in athletic activities such as hockey, bowling, basketball, volleyball, and softball. Thus at Gettysburg High School, physical as well as mental competency is stressed.

Along with enjoyment, girls received awards by earning a specified number of points for participating in the sports or officiating the games. A minor "G" is merited by getting 70 points, a numeral for 90 points, or a major "G" for 110 points. The Girls' Athletic Association pin was given to the senior girl having the greatest number of points accumulated over the years in which she participated in the club.

Characterized by their unique initiation, the Varsity Club benefits both its members and the school. Any boy who has earned a letter in a varsity sport is entitled to share in the initiation's rugged antics demanded by the "big brothers," members of the club. This year the boys sold candy and sponsored a faculty versus varsity club basketball game and dance. With their profits, equipment was purchased for the athletic department and jackets for the senior members.

Reflections

A silent figure now stands on Little Round Top where General Warren was once able to see the shining metal of the enemy's guns in the woods below. As the statue remains motionless in the serenity of the now peaceful battlefield, many minds reflect upon the decisive struggle fought at this location. This division now offers the student an opportunity to review the gaiety and activities of the past school year and to reflect upon his struggles and victories in achieving a solid education.
